THE DAILY AVALANCHE

Henry Myers, a barber, committed suicide by jumping into the river, at Kansas City, on Sunday.

Two Kentucky traders named Yeast, were robbed of a large sum of money by highwaymen, near Lynchburg, Virginia, on Monday.

A subscription is being raised in New York for the benefit of the widow of the "late defaunt," and on Wednesday the sum of $155 55 was collected.

It will require ninety million dollars in coin to pay the interest which falls due on the five-twenty bonds on the 1st and 24th of November.

Oliver Graves, baggageman on the Rock Island and Port Byron railroad, was killed at Port Byron on the night of the 12th.

There are four hundred and fifty-three convicts in the Tennessee penitentiary, and a good many Radicals out of it who should be within its walls.

At Junction City, on Wednesday, ground was broken and work commenced on the Southern branch of the Union Pacific railroad. Speeches, a grand ball and, banquet, and more speeches, finished the jubilee.

A few days tipce, near Easton, Mr. James Smally killed a snake fifteen inches in length having two heads, one at each end, eyes and tongue complete, could run as fast one way as the other, and could bite at either end.

W. Nolen and Thos. V. Glass, of the spectable firm of Wm. Nolen & Co., of Paducah, were arrested, on Monday last, and taken to Louisville, for failing (through carelessness) to pay their Government license of $22 50. The fine for non-payment is $500.

A one-legged editor in Georgia, named Nevin, recently challenged a gentleman to fight a duel, and proposed that his two-legged adversary should stand with one leg in a bee gum, so as to equalize the chances. The obligeing offer was declined.

Colonel Sam. Stewart and Hon. [illegible], N. A Stewart, of Rome, Georgia, whose arrest by the military, we noticed some time ago, have been released on bonds of $5,000. No charges have been preferred against them. They were arrested on the 21st of August.

Nicholas Hyman, of Buffalo, the natural guardian of Anna Hyman, a little girl of twelve years, sued Ellen Bork, for wilfully cutting off two large black curls from the said Anna's head and converting the same to her own use. The suit is in the Supreme Court, and the damages are laid at two thousand dollars.

The determination of the President to change his cabinet has been repeatedly alluded to. There is authority to repeal the same, with full permission of the President. In answer to an inquiry about General Sherman, he said: "I can assure you that General Sherman will be here between the 10th and 17th of November, and in ample time for the discharge of any duty, however responsible, which may devolve on him."

Since the year 1812, when the first load of authracite coal was taken back to Philadelphia and given away, the production consequent upon an extended demand has increased with great regularity, and now it reaches nearly twelve million tons a year. It is estimated that in ten years it will have reached the enormous annual production of twenty million tons.

The Paducah Herald, of the 17th, says: "The large tobacco manufacturing establishment of Mobberly & Monarch, in this city, was seized and closed a few days since by the Government revenue officers, upon the charge of fraud committed upon the revenue. Both members of the firm are at this time absent from the city. We suppose an investigation of the matter will take place before the United States District Court at Louisville.

The great Democratic meeting in Dayton on the 16th was a grand affair. From seven o'clock to nine the grand torchlight procession of three thousand five hundred torches and several hundred transparencies, with appropriate mottoes, paraded the streets accompanied by bands of music. Cannons were fired every few minutes. There were twenty thousand people on the ground, and powerful speeches were made by C. L. Vallandigham, and H. Clay Dean, and E. F. Bigelow.

An expert of the Treasury Department positively asserts that the alleged counterfeit bonds are printed from the same plate as the genuine and the impression has been obtained in the Department by the same means as was the hundred dollar interest note plate months ago. Chief Detective Wood says the one thousand dollar plate is in the hands of the same gang of counterfeiters, but that does not invalidate the statement of the expert.

A young lady was nearly killed by her waterfall, a few days ago, near Springfield, Missouri. She was in a tree for some purpose or other, and in attempting to descend, the knot on the back of her head caught upon a limb, and falling, she was as effectually suspended as with a hangman's noose. The situation was extremely unpleasant and delicate, but the commendable presence of mind of her mate attendant saved the feminine Absalom.

Both England and Italy are enjoying something of the ferment of revolution. Further successes of the Garibaldians are reported, and the whole Italian press, without exception, favor the seizure of Rome. The Pope has called a meeting of the cardinals to consider the situation. The papal troops are falling back on Rome. The Spanish prime minister is reported to have tendered the assistance of Spain to protect the temporal power of the Pope.

The Henderson country (N. J.) Democrat states that there are 28,000 negroes on the Peninsula in Virginia, between Williamsburg and Hampton, a distance of thirty-six miles, who are supported with rations furnished by the Government, at a cost of $60,000 monthly, while five companies of cavalry are required to patrol the country to prevent depredations. Efforts have been made to find them employment; fields where their labor would be rewarded, have been ascertained, and the Government offers to send them thither free of charge, but they persistently refuse to leave. Here they remain, a heavy tax upon the Government.

There is intense excitement in Kokomo, Indiana, over the moral delinquencies of the principal of the high school, in that town, a flourishing institution of over six hundred pupils, of the male gender. The principal was a graduate of a New England college, and came recommended as a pious gentleman and accomplished scholar. He was good looking, well dressed, self-poised, and a deacon in a fashionable church. It was developed a few days ago that he was guilty of practices with his scholars too revolting to be named, and which would eclipse the enormities of Reverend Sereno Howe. The culprit, known as Reverend Eraseus M. Fay, fled to escape the summary punishment of an outraged community.

Old Andy is getting his back up. According to the Cincinnati Enquirer's Washington special, in response to the question of his course, should Radicals attempt to depose him before trial, he said he would resist with all the powers which the Constitution furnished for its own protection and preservation. This was said with great warmth and earnestness. It would be criminal, he said, not to resist an effort on the part of Congress to usurp or destroy the Executive Department, and he thought it well for the country to know his opinion and his purpose in relation to Cabinet changes. He said he would strengthen himself for any emergency that might arise. Circumstances, he said, necessitated a change, and this should be done before Congress met.

BALTIMORE.

Parade of the Maryland Militia—Character and Appearance of the Troops.

[Special dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette, Radical.]

BALTIMORE, October 15.

The much talked of parade of the Maryland militia took place to-day. The weather was very fine, and something like fifty thousand turned out to see the soldiers. Business was partially suspended for several hours, and many schools seemed to have half a holiday.

The parade was confined to the first division of National Guards, and was participated in by two companies of cavalry, three companies of artillery, fully equipped, and nine regiments of infantry. None of the companies or regiments were full, and the number of men in line did not exceed 4,000.

Two of the regiments were dressed as zouaves, two in blue uniforms, one in gray pants and blue jacket, and four in gray throughout, with black, green or red trimmings.

The division was commanded by Major General Bowerman, formerly of the regular army. The first brigade commander was Brigadier General Cooper, late of the Confederate army. The second brigade commander was Brigadier General Carr, never in the field. The fifth regiment, made up of Baltimore aristocracy, was commanded by Colonel Herbert, late of the rebel army.

The various companies formed on or near Broadway between nine and ten o'clock, and the review took place at the junction of Broadway and Baltimore streets. There was an immense crowd in Broadway and all the adjacent streets, but the utmost good humor prevailed. Some of the soldiers, while waiting on the Governor's tardy movements, went to drinking saloons, got tipsy, and, as a consequence, became noisy and quarrelsome. Half a dozen arrests were made by the police.

The Governor was escorted to the reviewing stand by two regiments of infantry and one company of cavalry. He wore citizen's dress. The troops made a very creditable appearance. The fifth regiment, before alluded to, is handsomely uniformed, marched admirably, and was much cheered by the rebel sympathizers. The sixth and eighth regiments are supposed to contain a considerable proportion of the Republicans, and they were more or less cheered at the points where the loyalists had collected.

There was not so much enthusiasm in the city as outsiders expected there would be. A very few flags were displayed. The Governor was complimented with some waving of handkerchiefs, but was cheered at only one or two points. He was accompanied by his staff in new and most gorgeous uniforms.

The artillery companies did not have out their new brass guns. The troops marched through the principal streets of the city, and the review was over by two o'clock.

Everything passed off quietly, and no disturbance was reported up to dark.

MISSISSIPPI ITEMS.

The Panola Star, of the 19th, is clad in mourning for the death of its late editor, the gallant Major M. S. Ward. It says in allusion to that sad event: "We always found him kind, generous, and indulgent, and not the slightest breath of discord ever arose to mar the harmony and friendship between us. Major Ward served throughout the late war, in command of a battery, and took a prominent part in the defense of Vicksburg. He was in the forty-seventh year of his age, and gave promise of many years of usefulness, when the dread messenger called him hence."

The quarantine at Jackson has been abolished. Cause, unusually healthy condition of the city.

The Columbus Sentinel, of the 8th, regrets to announce much sickness in Lowndes county generally. It is of the chill and ague type mostly.

General Ord has appointed Hon. E. G. Peyton, of Copiah county, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Judge J. S. Yerger.

In the Handsboro' Democrat, of the 12th, "very many voters" call on Joe Evans, colored, to run for judge of the eighth judicial district at the next election.

The Holly Springs Reporter of the 18th says: "We learn that Mr. J. J. Emon, of Wall Hill, who was arrested by the military authorities about six weeks ago, and was undergoing trial before a military commission on a charge of shooting at a freedman, made his escape last Monday, and is still at large. Emon has been in custody for six weeks, upon a charge preferred by a negro man. An examination was had by the military at that place, five weeks ago, which, in our opinion, clearly established his innocence. After this examination, he was retained in custody, and brought before a military commission."

The Holly Springs Reporter says: "About fifteen months ago a soldier named Lowe deserted from the 34th United States infantry, a detachment of which is now garrisoning Holly Springs. Nothing was heard of him until a few days ago, when he was found quietly and innocently working in a field not far from this place. He was immediately arrested and confined in the guardhouse, and a guard detailed to take him to Columbus, Mississippi, and turn him over to the commander of his company. He escaped from the guardhouse two or three nights ago, and started on a home run. He is still at large."

General Ord has concluded to permanently establish his headquarters at Holly Springs. He was recently in that place for the purpose of completing arrangements.

The Vicksburg Times of the 12th says: "A private letter from a prominent citizen of Natchez, states that four fatal cases of black vomit have occurred in that city, and that cases of Dengue fever are plentiful."

ARKANSAS ITEMS.

The Pine Bluff Orthopolitan says that the Radical county convention which met there on the 5th, nominated Mallory, Snider, Grey and Murphy (colored) as candidates to the Constitutional Convention. The negroes who comprise nine-tenths of party strength, were very much dissatisfied with the ticket, and they were to hold a convention on the 12th to put out another ticket.

Mr. M. Hartsfield, of Hempstead county, exhibited at the late fair at Mineral Springs, a pear which measured six and a half inches in length, without the stem, and fifteen and three-fourths inches in circumference. It weighed, three days after pulling, two pounds and a half ounces.

The Fayetteville Radical is defunct. Cause—lack of Government pap.

Rufus L. Lincoln announces himself as "the white man's candidate" for delegate to the convention, in the Camden Herald. He approves of the course of the Herald in opposition to a convention.

A half crop of cotton will be made in Union county, and corn enough for home consumption.

Hon. E. A. Warren, in a speech at El Dorado, urged the people to reject the terms which the Radicals have offered.

The Washington Telegraph of the 9th instant says: "Last Saturday the political organization of negroes accustomed to meet here, again assembled, some of them with arms. The military authorities interfered promptly. One of them was arrested, and the others stampeded and made their escape. The meeting proceeded after ward in peace."

The following are the resolutions passed by the Democracy of Louisville at their meeting on Saturday night last:

WHEREAS, The result of the late elections in Connecticut, California and Maine, and of the more recent elections in the great States of Ohio and Pennsylvania, afford unmistakable indications of a mighty reaction in favor of the wise and glorious Constitution of the American Republic, and against the vindictive, pernicious and confessedly unconstitutional purposes of a revolutionary party; and,

WHEREAS, We behold in the reaction power which is destined to shed beams of reviving hope over the land and lift from all the shadows of impending storms; therefore, be it

Resolved, That to the great Conservative masses of the North, we tender our thanks for this glorious manifestation of their strength and fidelity.

Resolved, That their action is the emphatic repudiation of a war policy for the government of peaceful communities, and, therefore, a triumph of liberty over despotism, and a glorious triumph of fraternal feelings, which we reciprocate with cordial fervor.

Resolved, That by her overwhelming vote against negro suffrage Ohio has pronounced a scornful rejection of that foul and unnatural policy which required the white freemen of the North to abandon all the affinities of race in order to erect in ten States of our Union a most monstrous and revolting oligarchy, in which the descendants of Washington, Madison, Jefferson and Clay were to be disfranchised, and their property and honor subjected to the unchecked rapacity and brutal dominion of their former slaves.

Resolved, That by such fidelity to the instincts of local self-government, out of which sprung the revolution of '76, and the Constitution of our country, our Northern Democratic brethren (God bless them) respond to the mighty voices which call to us from the past, and declare, "Union and Liberty, One and Inseparable, Now and Forever."

Resolved, That while to such a Union we can pledge the undivided affection of every American, we promise to its restorers the zealous, devoted co-operation of Kentucky, and the gratitude of every man in the wide world who regards the system approved by Washington as the last hopeful experiment of human freedom.

Democratic Majority in Pennsylvania.

The Presidential Election in Mexico.

Garibaldi Escapes From Caprera.

Napoleon Comes to the Rescue of the Pope.

NEW YORK, October 19.—Evidence thus far obtained by the Congressional Committee on investigating the Barnum election in Connecticut shows that money freely was lavishly spent by both sides, and does not establish directly the charge of buying votes against W. H. Barnum, while on the other hand it has been sworn to by a number of witnesses that P. T. Barnum's agent openly bought or attempted to buy votes.

WASHINGTON, October 19.—The Congressional Committee on Southern railroads have completed their examinations in Richmond and leave to-day for Charleston.

A Toronto dispatch says the Government has been informed regarding the plans of the Fenian Brotherhood. It is so important that the secret has been issued only to commandants of military posts throughout the province.

HARRISBURG, October 19.—The correct official majority for Sharswood, Democratic candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court, is 922.

HAVANA, October 19.—By the arrival of the steamer Louisiana, from Vera Cruz, we have advices from the city of Mexico to the 15th, and Vera Cruz to the 16th instant. Juarez had received a majority of votes for President in the city of Mexico, but the proposition for the Constitutional amendment was defeated. The general result of the Presidential election is not yet known.

The steamer Louisiana, will also following per the, hailed from Mexico, on board, has arrived here on her way to Europe: The widow of Miramon and her family; Imperial Ministers Marin and Theophile Lasteur; Juan Bureo; Foreign Affairs, Nicolas Portilla; General Roa, Counsellor Condon and Bishops Ormaches and Tulanchingo.

Quesada, commander of Maximo in his flight was discovered on the Texan frontier by a party of soldiers, but succeeded in again escaping.

PARIS, October 18—Midnight.—Napoleon has made an imperative demand upon the Italian Government for a strict observance on the part of Italy of the September convention.

The expedition at Toulon is equipped and ready to sail to the relief of Rome, and only waits for the reply of Italy, which is hourly expected. The Count de Chambord is also said to have offered his services to the Italian Government.

LONDON, October 18.—The following dispatch has been received from Florence dated to-night:

"It is reported that Garibaldi has escaped from Caprera. He left the island on board of an American ship. Garibaldian forces have appeared in the Western District, between Rome and the sea. They have taken the railway running between Rome and the seaport of Osia, and torn up the rails to prevent all communication. Italy and France have a perfect understanding with each other, and are really acting together in the treatment of the Roman question."

ALABAMA ITEMS.

The North Alabamian, of the 16th, says: Zack McCurvey, (colored) fell down between the cars on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, between this place and Barton station, last Thursday morning, and was instantly killed, his body being mangled in a frightful manner.

At Mobile, on the 15th, a colored preacher and school teacher, by the name of Titman Lindsay, was brought before the Mayor on the charge of rape on the person of a little negro girl named Eliza Burns, about thirteen years old. He was held to appear in one thousand dollars bond.

The Montgomery Advertiser of the 16th, says: "More new cotton arrived in the city yesterday than on any day this season. On account of the heavy depression of the market, the most of it was stored with the warehousemen. During the afternoon, the market revived, and closed at 15½c., tax included.

The Montgomery Advertiser says: The farmers in the Tennessee Valley are anxious to get out their cotton at an early day. Reliable labor is hard to get, and money is very scarce, and all who will work can do well by coming to the Valley and pick out cotton. One dollar per hundred can be readily obtained. None who labor need complain of the want of money when work bears such a price. The farmers will not be able to gather their crops before Christmas with the present amount of hands. The people who have made corn excessively can do well by assisting those who have got cotton to gather in the Valley.

A. ANDERSON, who has been formerly associated with us, and in retiring from the business we take pleasure in commending our successor to the confidence and patronage of our customers and the public generally, feeling assured that a continuance of the same liberal dealing which has characterized the house of NIPGEN & BARRET, and the character and qualifications of our worthy successors in this branch of trade, their reputation as well and favorably known in this city and throughout the country generally for us to be able in anything we might here state to add thereto. Suffice it to say they are of long and tried experience in this branch of business and therefore, most cordially recommend a continuation of our patronage with this house.

JOHN A. NIPGEN,
D. A. ANDERSON,
A. NIPGEN,
BARRET & BRAHER.

To the Public.

In having made the above purchase and resumed business at the old and well known stand, No. 318 Main street, where we have been so long and for so many long years of unbroken and advantageously met our old friends and patrons, and as a train of unbroken prejudices and associations have clustered around us in our former place of business, it is with feelings of earnest consideration that we again approach you to offer to our former patrons and the public generally a large and well selected stock of Drugs, Medicines, Oils, Dyes, and, indeed, everything usually kept in a first class and well conducted Drug Store, to which we are now adding, and will continue to add constantly, fresh supplies of the same, as they arrive in this and other markets as offered. And as we shall import from foreign markets direct for our own supplies, we intend making this one of the Drug emporiums of the city, and therefore, hold out special inducements to both Wholesale and Retail dealers in the city and country, to give us a call, examine and price our Stock before purchasing elsewhere, for we are determined by our close prices and fair dealing to share of the trade and foreign countries, as well as with sound, practical judgment in making our purchases, so as to be able, with the choicest quality of our Stock and the low prices we will offer them at, to please you every way, and merit your confidence. And, finally, hoping, moreover, that these propositions (for we intend to make good to the letter as fast as they are proposed), will meet with the hearty concurrence of our old friends and patrons and the community generally. We are very respectfully yours etc.

LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS

IN referring to our Card as above, we would say that in the future, as in the past, we will give our best attention to the interests of our patrons on all consignments made to us. That while our facilities are at least equal to any, THE USUAL CHARGES WILL BE MADE, and we pledge ourselves that the result to the planter on all business intrusted to us, shall be as favorable as from any other house of equal standing, or from a house which may propose to transact business for less than we feel we can justly and safely afford to do. oct8

To the Cotton Brokers of Memphis.

GENTLEMEN—In furtherance of your wishes to lessen the transfer charges on cotton from planter to buyer here, we have the satisfaction to say to you that we have our agent with Mr. JONES, Superintendent of the Memphis and Ohio rail road, to speak all cotton intended for us in separate cars, and to run the same to our Warehouse, thus saving a drayage to the owner taxed producer and avoiding the vexatious delay in the delivery of cotton at the Main street depot consequent upon the always inadequate facilities extended there.

On examination of our Warehouse is particularly requested, and parties who may be satisfied with it, and with the arrangement we have made with the railroad, can leave in their names to be forwarded by Mr. Jones to his Agents along the line of the road.

SUNDAY, : : : : : : : OCTOBER 20, 1867

A TRUTHFUL picture of the times as they are now and as they were eight years ago is enough to startle the nation, and is sufficient to make the dead move in their coffins. Then we had universal prosperity; now one-half the country is deeply impoverished. Then everything looked stable and hopeful; now we have no stability, no hope. Then the Constitution was honored and the laws revered; now we have no Constitution, and the laws, who cares for them? Then we had statesmen who charmed listening Senators and admiring thousands; now our statesmen are as voiceless as the tomb in which liberty lies buried. Then we had a labor system, mild, efficient and profitable—a system which identified the interests of capitalist and laborer, and which was enriching Europe and America; now we have no labor system at all, but a miserable sham which begets idleness fosters crime and is the fruitful source of wasteful public expenditure and private want. Then our laboring population was the best fed, best clothed, and happiest in the world; now our laboring class (so-called) is the most unhappy and thriftless on the globe. Then a negro pauper was unknown, now they fill our streets and hang upon the Bureau, and will even crowd our poor houses. Then there was not a negro brothel nor gambling hell for negroes in all our cities; now they make the very atmosphere foted with the poisonous exhalations which are sent out by them. Then rapine and murder seldom stalked forth, and even then with stealthy steps under the protection of night; now they pollute the soil with their unhallowed tread at mid-day. Then the Southern negro was an active laborer, and the largest producer of cotton in the world; now he is a heavy tax to the whole country, costing the Government more than its entire expenses in the days of MADISON and MONROE and JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. Then the negro was under the wholesome religious instruction of white men; now he refuses to listen to the intelligent white man, and prefers the foolish gabble of some negro preacher, who has no appreciation of the sublime truths of the Christian religion. Then not a man, except some Puritanical fanatic, but was proud to be called an American citizen; now the honest patriot blushes for veryshame that American citizenship has been bartered away, and transferred from the intelligent Caucasian to the ignorant African. Truly we have fallen upon evil times. Let the six years now to come be as prolific of evils as those just past, and the plagues of Egypt will be rich blessings compared with the sufferings of these people. The party that has brought and that is still bringing these curses upon the land deserves to be chained like PROMETHEUS of old to some solitary rock until its very vitals are torn asunder by the merciless vulture of popular indignation. It deserves the fate of PHARAOH and his hosts overwhelmed by a storm of the people's wrath, which shall never abate until the bloodthirsty STEVENSES and BROWNLOWS sink into an obscurity so dark and deep that no ray of light may reach them. We hear in the distance the murmurings of that storm. A mighty cloud in the North, and a fire unfolding itself. It sweeps with tremendous force and desolation marks its fiery pathway, that this storm may purify the atmosphere and leave the heavens bright and the earth calm and quiet is the prayer of the patriot and is the soft inspiring whisper of hope.

ALABAMA has ever boasted of a grand and chivalrous people. No county within her borders was occupied by a more refined and intelligent population than old Madison. There were the CLAYS, and MOORES, and PHELAN'S, and many others of the highest social position, and rarest intelligence and most genial hospitality. Nestling among her romantic mountains is the beautiful city of Huntsville. From this little city, renowned for its liberality, patriotism, elegance and taste, many sons of Alabama have gone forth to do the bidding of their proud and noble mothers. If any city was perfect in its finish, delightful in its situation, blest in its citizens, and praised by all that were capable of appreciating the beautiful and the good, that city was Huntsville, Alabama. From this city there went out many years ago, two brothers, to seek their fortunes in Eastern Alabama. They had been thoroughly educated at the State University. They settled in Greensborough, and entered at once upon the practice of law. They were STERNHAM and JOHN E. MOORE. As gentlemen they were remarkable for stern integrity and fine talents; as lawyers they were more solid than brilliant, and as politicians they were Democrats of the extreme Southern type. It is especially of SYDENHAM MOORE that we wish now to speak. He was a man of the greatest suavity of manners, the finest powers of conversation, and the most acute legal mind. He was a good advocate and an able jurist. Pure and gentle as a woman, he had all the masculine energy that could be demanded in the highest style of man. Surrounded by wealth, luxury, refinement, with an accomplished and elegant wife, promising and interesting children and numerous friends, he surrendered all at the first tap of the drum—gave his noble life to the cause of the South. Enlisting as a private, he was soon elected Colonel of his regiment. It was in the swamp of the Chickahominy, in the bloody battle of Seven Pines, that he fell, leading and encouraging his men to the last. He had dismounted, and wading in water and mud, he exposed himself, regardless of the dangers that were sufficient to make the bravest heart quail. His men said he was the bravest of the brave. To fear he was a total stranger. He knew his duty, and, with a valor worthy of immortal honor, he performed it. At last he fell, pierced by a bullet, which deprived the country of as true a patriot and as brave a man as could be found in the Southern army. Colonel MOORE added to his many manly virtues that of being a Christian. Like the great Christian hero, STONEWALL JACKSON, he was an humble and exemplary follower of the meek and lowly Saviour. We cannot afford to write traitor upon the tombs of such as he. No! not these were patriots all, and their very names shall give a delightful fragrance to the AVALANCHE which it could obtain from no other source.

MR. WEED, who appears to know a good deal about MRS. LINCOLN, says:

It may not be inappropriate to say that Mrs. Lincoln received $10,000 from one, and $5,000 from another contributor in the city, before Mr. Lincoln's death, and probably without his knowledge.

Poor, foolish woman. If she had committed as many sins of taking as old THURLOW, or even giving with the prospect of a sure and augmented return, she would be blacker than folly or fanaticism could make her. She may not be crazy, but is weak if not a fool. With feeble intellect at first, her high position, and the fulsome flattery of the crowd turned her poor brain. That she in the hight of her folly helped scoundrels to obtain office, to the disgrace and detriment of the nation, she is answering for now in the obloquy and ridicule and disgust that pursue her from every part of the land. We pity her, although the refined feelings that might be soothed by commiseration do not belong to her. She is of a respectable family—her father being many years Clerk of the House of Representatives of Kentucky, and afterwards Senator from Fayette—a most respectable gentleman—but she was badly raised, bred back to bad blood, and is a most unfortunate, self-willed, crazy woman.

The commodious residence of Rev. Z. Parker, in Huntsville, with all the outhouses, was destroyed by fire on the 14th, involving a loss of $6,000.

At Raleigh, North Carolina, strenuous efforts are being made by influential leading men to revive the Democratic party, for the purpose of co-operation with and encouraging Northern Democrats.

The Springfield, Tennessee, Register announces the demise, in his eighty-forth year, of Mr. Jacob Smith, on the 15th instant, leaving the second largest estate in the county. He was a native of North Carolina.

The deaths of Colonel A. M. Branch, Dr. G. W. Baker, of the firm of Baker, Walker & Co., in Galveston, and Colonel James Gillespie, all of Huntsville, Texas, are announced in the last Houston Telegraph.

The transit steamer General Anderson, plying between Columbus, Kentucky, and Cairo—the Mobile and Ohio and Illinois Central—is not subject to quarantine. She has no detention, but makes her trips with unvarying regularity.

The New Orleans Picayune regrets to hear that several planters in the richer portions of Louisiana and Mississippi, purpose abandoning their present occupation. The reason given is that they cannot hope to secure labor to carry on their plantations to any large extent, and that the insolence and exactions of the freedmen make the business disagreeable.

The deaths by yellow fever at New Orleans for the twenty-four hours ending at six o'clock on the morning of the 16th were twenty-eight—twenty-three males and five females. Among the former was John W. Scott, aged twenty-six, from Kentucky, of the steamer Warren Belle. Among the victims was Miss Carlotta Shaw, sister of Mrs. Charles Howard, the accomplished comedienne.

NASHVILLE, October 17.

An appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court by the late city authorities to compel officials now in office to vacate.

Mrs. Whittaker, of Fayetteville, on returning to her home a couple of days since from a bridal tour, fell dead as she descended from the carriage.

In Cleveland, on Tuesday, Frank Clingan was thrown from his horse and killed.

At Madisonville, East Tennessee, a few days since, Gregory Hawkins, while attending to his mill, fell upon the water wheel and was carried underneath and crushed to death. At the same place, Tolliver White was shot and killed by Wm. Carter, the latter approaching White's house and firing through a window. An old grudge was the cause of the tragedy.

A verdict of three thousand four hundred dollars was found to-day in the Circuit Court against two physicians, for malpractice in treating a child's eye, which they destroyed.

NASHVILLE, October 19.

The Metropolitan Police went on duty to-night.

The Legislature is not in session to-day, having adjourned to attend the fair at Franklin. The members were delighted with the courtesy shown them there.

Senator Rodgers yesterday offered a resolution in the Senate in favor of paying the State bonds with greenbacks. He is one of the oldest and ablest Radicals in the Senate.

John E. Ames, of Georgia, had his pocket picked to-day, at the Chattanooga depot, of one thousand dollars.

A few days ago a party of men called at the residence of Mr. Porter, three miles from Johnsonville, and enticed him off, under the pretense of wishing him as a witness in a trial. After they had gone some distance, Wm. Pierce came out of the bushes and shot him dead. Pierce was afterward arrested, but made his escape. The remainder of the party is held for trial. The difficulty originated in matters occurring during the war.

The railroads concentrating here are trying to agree upon the establishment of a union depot. Much interest is felt in the result.

2d. That the Greenback Legal Tender Act was also unconstitutional.

From the Tribune.]

"Now the original decision in Pennsylvania that the Conscription Act was unconstitutional was pronounced in 1863 (by Judge Sharswood, if we mistake not,) and being appealed to the Supreme Court, was there sustained in that year by Judges Lowrie, Woodward and Thompson, (Democrats); Judges Strong and Read dissenting. The majority opinion of the Court was read by Judge Lowrie. Judges Lowrie and Woodward were the Democratic candidates for Judge and Governor respectively in the State election then pending, in which they were both beaten by Judge Agnew and Governor Curtin respectively—and the ousting of Lowrie by Agnew gave the Republican side of the court a majority; by which majority the aforesaid decision was reversed January 16, 1864, the new Judge Agnew now pronouncing the opinion of the Court."

This recall of facts only renders the Democratic triumph the more brilliant.

Green Corn Feast of the Senecas.

The remnant of the Seneca tribe living on the reserve in Cattaraugus county, New York, still keep up the ancient customs of the red man, although in many respects they have been subdued to civilization, by dwelling in the midst of it and leading an agricultural, instead of the roving life of the hunter. This should be a lesson to the Government, proving conclusively that labor is the only civilizer, and that its Indian policy has been founded on error ab initio. A late number of the Dunkirk Journal furnishes the following graphic account of one of their festivities, the green corn dance:

The men and women form a circle, in the middle of which the musicians are seated. The musical instruments generally consist of a small keg (in modern times oyster kegs have been made available for the purpose) minus one head, with a woodchuck skin stretched over the open end, and a small turkey wing with a handle attached, and a woodchuck skin extending from edge to edge on the concave side. The former, being a sort of drum, is thumped with a single stick, and dried peas are put in to give the latter a rattling sound. The music moves slowly at first, and the dancers only walk. Presently the measure grows more lively, and the Indians begin to dance, alternately hopping twice upon one foot, and swinging side to side, while the women, all facing outward, manage by moving their toes outward and inward, to move around in the revolving circle without lifting their feet from the floor. Faster and faster goes the music, and more and more vigorously move the dancers, the warriors leaping and whirling to and fro, flinging their arms about, and performing such bodily contortions and convulsive jerks as you would deem impracticable to any one else, while the women ever looking demurely to the floor, and with their arms hanging motionless by their sides, still glide onward, as if borne along by some means independent of their own powers of locomotion. At last when the dancing has become as lively as possible, and even Indian nerves and muscles are jaded by intense action, at a given signal all stopsuddenly, when the warriors join a series of whoops and yells, hideous enough, almost, to curdle the blood of an alligator.

At Houston, Texas, on the 11th, there were four deaths by yellow fever, of which one was a colored child of eighteen months.

General Rawlings is in receipt of some five hundred sets of resolutions, from all parts of the country, nominating General Grant for the Presidency; more from Pennsylvania and New York than from any other two States.

The New York Times' special says parties interested are hard at work making up a case to prove the liability of the Government for the counterfeit seven-thirties. The Government will resist the claim to the utmost.

Hinton Rowen Helper, of abolition notoriety, is in Washington. He modestly claims that his late efforts against the negro have inaugurated the reaction to which it had been thought the Ohio Democracy had some claims.

MARRIED.

On the 17th instant, at the Catholic Church, by Father T. L. Powers, FORREST FOWELL to Miss CARRIE C. HALEY, all of this city.

A brave and gallant gentleman has wooed and won a beautiful and accomplished lady. It is the sincere wish of their many friends that happiness may ever hover around and be with them, and bliss be their reward through all the vicissitudes of life. Thus do we find our bachelor friends dropping off one by one, launching out in the perilous sea of matrimony. Well, we may become desperate some day ourself—who knows? At any rate we hope FORREST may be happy with his fair bride and never rue the day he quitted a single blessedness. May little sunny rays play around their cheerful hearthstone. May blessings multiply as they grow older, and all their little troubles be but golden links in the holy bond of wedlock.

THE DISCOVERY OF THE AGE

NO material which has ever been discovered has effected greater benefits in the household economy than

McCLELESY'S MAGIC SOAP.

It is a labor saving invention as well as an invaluable remedy in scurvy, salt head, eruptions of the skin and pimples. Dandruff is removed from the head, the scalp is bleached and cleansed, pimples and jaundice disappear, stains of all kinds are removed, from carpets, furniture, clothes, paint, varnish or marble with the greatest facility and without injury to the material. It is a great saving of time and labor in washing clothes. It is the only known soap which will wash flannels with the same of cotton or linen without fulling or shrinking. All these important objects can be effected without injury to the skin or the most delicate fabric. It possesses no deleterious quality whatever. The world is challenged to produce a soap which possesses so many valuable properties, as it which is offered to the public. It is a home invention, an undue competition in any part of the world. It has become a necessity in Memphis, and can be in a few days among these heard the world, and eventually will extend over the Union States, North and south, to Europe, Africa and Australia. Manufactured solely by C. F. MCGIMSEY, Memphis, Tenn., and each soap be found at any respectable dealer family grocery or drug store. The proprietor is determined that its manufacture shall keep pace with the rapidly extending demand for its use.

GALLAWAY, RHEA & CLUSKEY.

STOLEN.—A trunk belonging to Mollie Williams, on Poplar street, containing a lot of clothing. No arrest.

CORRECTION.—We are desired to correct an error which occurred in our river report yesterday, that Messrs. Keedig & Co. were negotiating for the St. Patrick. Such negotiations are not pending, nor is it contemplated.

The following telegrams remain uncalled for in the office: E. A. Levy, Milnor & Frey, Richard Beal, Davis & Dyer, Judge Robert Lewis, N. S. Green, Marks Wolf, Major Harris, (colored), Frank Mahon, Sam. A. Lewis, R. P. Walt & Co., General B. M. Bradford, Martin Keany, E. M. Apperson.

THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.—The congregation of this church will adjourn at a quarter before eleven a.m., to attend the funeral obsequies of the Rev. Dr. Dewes, of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, on Court street. The Sunday school and Bible class will meet at the usual hours.

MEETING OF THE MEMBERS OF THE BAR.—The members of the bar are requested to meet at the Law Court room on Monday, 21st instant, at ten o'clock, a.m., to adopt measures to testify their respect to the memory of the late Judge Thomas G. Smith.

MEMPHIS, October 19.

I did not return to the city until a late hour, and am unable to furnish the mortuary report for today, though I do not think it will exceed the report of yesterday.

W. E. ROGERS,
Secretary Board of Health.

This would limit the deaths to three.

We regret to learn from the Standard of the serious illness of the head of that paper. "He has been unwell for two days past, and is to-day confined to his bed."—Louisville Courier.

Is it not well that he is a man?

WHOLESALE GROCERS.—The advertisement of Messrs. Price & Treadwell, wholesale grocers, No. 15 Union street, Lee block, will attract attention. This is one of the staunchest and most reliable firms in Memphis. Mr Treadwell, a long-time citizen of Memphis, we have long known and no one stands higher. The stock of this house is complete, comprising everything of the best in the grocery line.

PERSONAL.—We had the pleasure of seeing yesterday in our sanctum F. W. Lynn, Esq., proprietor of the Jacksonport (Arkansas) Herald. It would have given us great pleasure had his stay been longer, to have extended to him the hospitalities and attention we owe our friends of the press of the interior. He returned home last evening, and we hope he may soon repeat his visit, tarry longer the next time, and be sure to apprise us of his arrival as soon as he lands.

DR. CREIGHTON'S VIEWS.—We do not think it necessary to do more than call attention to the communication of Dr. Creighton. His views will be read with interest, from the eminent position he holds, and the clearness and logic with which they are expressed. We have received a communication, through a friend, from Dr. Bailey, on the same subject, but collateral in its object, for which we have in vain tried to find room in this issue.

We wish to call the attention of our many readers, and the public generally, who are in need of clothing, to the extensive and well selected stock of clothing and furnishing goods now opening at the store of Gloss, customers, doeskins, vesting, etc., at Reid & Bro.'s, 15½ Jefferson street. They are selling goods at least twenty per cent. less than last fall. Give them a call. It will be to your advantage. 2t

DEAD.—We are pained to announce the death of John L. Taylor, of this city. He has resided here twelve years, and his uniform kindness and courtesy have won for him a host of friends, who will sadly regret his death. He was in the prime of life, being only thirty-four years old. He was a staunch and true friend of the "lost cause," and made sacrifices for its defenders equalled by few. As a business man he was upright and honorable, and has left a void that will be difficult to fill.

PUBLIC TRIBUNICE.—Last evening, a big, burly, broad shouldered, double fisted "American citizen of African descent," dropped into our business office and requested one of our clerks to "assist" him in getting to Richmond. The decided coolness of the better citizen, strong and able bodied as he was, was entirely surpassed by his "innocence" in supposing that printers ever had money. The worst of it all, he called on one of the editors who has run on his face till it resembles a shingle—sideways.

BLUFF CITY GIFT AND PREMIUM DISTRIBUTION.—The distribution of the gifts and premiums (all cast) of this popular enterprise, will take place at the old Masonic Hall Stairs Court room, over Mansfield & Higbee's drug store, Nos. 301 and 303 Main street, on Wednesday, October 23, instead of at Stillman hall, as heretofore advertised. Dr. Mansfield has kindly proffered the use of his rooms to Messrs. Russell & Co., and the public may rest assured that every adjunct to comfort will be brought into requisition for the occasion.

EMMONS & SON, No. 10 Jefferson street and 303 Main street, have received Frank Leslie, Police News, Staats Zeitung, Home Journal, Boys' and Girls' Weekly, New York Weekly, and also back numbers of the New York Clipper; Irish People, Irish American, Boston Pilot, Freeman's Journal, Irish Citizen, Metropolitan Record, London Society and London Art Journal for October, New York Ledger, Chimney Corner, Literary Album, Nick Nax, Merryman's Monthly, Godey's Lady's Book, Frank Leslie's Magazine, Demorest Magazine, all for November, and a lot of writing paper and envelops, blank books of all kinds and sheet music.

ATLANTIC AND GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.—Mr. Sam'l A. Lewis has been contracted with this great route, as General Agent, ever since it made connections with Cincinnati, and for fifteen years has been passenger agent. He now takes the place of the late popular and universally esteemed Isaac Pugh, and we cannot say Mr. Lewis a higher compliment, or commend him more cordially to the whole community who make connection with the great thoroughfare he represents, than by saying he will, better than any one we know, fill the vacancy caused by the death of our good old friend, whom everybody loved for his sterling and enduring qualities.

M. WORSHAM, No. 22 Jefferson street, AVALANCHE Building, received by last night's mail the Chimney Corner, Literary Album, Metropolitan Record, Harper's Weekly, Sporting Times, New York Clipper, Frank Leslie's Illustrated, Freeman's Journal, La Gazette, Democrat, Irish American, Irish People, Boston Pilot, Police News, Banner of Light, Turf, Field and Farm, New York Weekly, New York Ledger, Home Journal, Nick Nax, Merryman's, Norwester, Waverley Magazine, montly part, Chimney Corner, montly part, London Art Journal, Lady's Friend for November, Demorest's, Godey's Lady's Book and Magazine for November, and Broadway Diary; also, blank books, writing paper, envelops and base balls, which Colonel 202. sells cheap.

We learn that the little village of Rogersville, East Tennessee, was recently the scene of another tragedy. The notorious bushwhacker and marderer, Gissemore, was killed by a man named I. Willis. Gissemore and Willis had belonged to both armies during the war. At its close both were in the Federal service, and returned to Hawkins county, their former home. Gissemore was appointed deputy sheriff upon the reorganization of the county, and from that time till the day of his death was a terror to the good people of the county, using his official position as a cloak for his villainies. He has at last fallen by the hand of one of his old companions in arms, who, within one hundred yards of where in cold blood he had murdered four men. He was one of the leaders of the Radical party in Hawkins county, East Tennessee.

THE SABBATH.—The day of rest! on which the gates of labor are closed—when the care-worn toiling, and the thriving artisan, and the merchant and the lawyer, all cease from the hustle of the world that makes up all other days of the week. It is a time for rest—yet holy contemplation, too.

"How still the morning of the holiest day!"

Yet hark! those sounding bells! with what wondrous music their full tones now swell upon the air. To church and chapel they distinctly send, where in the sacred desk the minister the mission of his Heavenly Master pleads.

"Peace, peace! unto his soul he says—peace unto us!"

Do not these solemn influences sway the soul, and lift it up to God in holy adoration, grateful in blessings that He lets us live? Who does not feel a power irresistible to bow our leaping spirits, and fill the mind with grave emotion? Even the most wayward check their wild impulses, and feel that a chord within their hearts vibrates responsive to the call to prayer. The devout on bended knee and eyes uplift toward heaven, breathe out their humble invocations, that mercy and beneficence may blend to cleanse their daily sins;

"Ev'n as does the brook and river the gale,
Yet ponder'r hath the gentle mind;
The wand'ring wheel, the rolling mill
Move noiseless and still!

"By day we earn labor but the poor
From Nature's cup no banquet hail;
The wealth, at last, by toil's door,
And smiling, welcome all!"

The stern command now rests on every soul: "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy." It is that injunction which, however reckless we may be throughout the week, makes conscience draw back within itself, and, though in secret, bow to the presence of the Ever-Living God.

ONE OF THE NURSES.—The following letter was handed us by the gentleman to whom it was addressed, with the assurance that the good old nurse, one for whom he will vouch, and whom many a Confederate soldier will remember with gratitude, is here. The tenderness and care with which she ministered to the wounded, and kept her silent vigils while weary nature sought the surest restorer, will never be forgotten. One who received her kind solicitude, desires to see her at the AVALANCHE building, and acknowledge his indebtedness to her care. "The Colonel," if he know she was in this city, would move quickly to render her homage. Though that her skin be bronzed, her heart is as soft as snow":

ROOMS HOWARD ASSOCIATION,
NEW ORLEANS, October 17, 1867.

Mr. John Sugarman, Memphis:

DEAR SIR.—At a relief meeting of our Association last evening, a dispatch was received asking us to send fifteen experienced nurses for yellow fever to your city. They go up this evening; and among them is one named Ellen Crone, a colored woman, who has been living among my connections (formerly owned by one of them) for thirty years. She is a faithful, honest creature and excellent nurse. I mention this that in case yourself or any of your family should unfortunately be attacked by fever and required a good nurse, you may know one whom can be relied on. Hoping that your health is now restored, and that you and yours may escape the prevailing fever, I am, very respectfully, yours,

F. R. SOUPENARD,
Sec.

THEATRICAL.

Lady Don closed her [illegible] engagement at the New Memphis Theater last evening with the comedy of "Casta." The acting of this lady is natural and easy. She is a charming soubrette and sings with excellent emphasis and distinct articulation, and her voice is one of remarkable clearness and richness. Her style is plain, unostentatious being for the most part dispensed with, and admirably adapted to ballads, to which she imparts a peculiar charm.

Miss Emilie Melville succeeds Lady Don, and will commence her engagement to-morrow evening. She created quite a furore last season at the Opelousas Opera House, and the impression has not faded in the intervening time. She has youth, beauty, taste, and a voice of rare sweetness and exquisite modulation. Abounding in pathos, it is what your learned critics would term "a sympathetic voice." The touching air, "Ask Me Not Why," which we heard her sing last year, lingers on our memory yet.

Without instituting any comparison, may we not say that, if it would have been ridiculous if the engagements of these song-birds had been at longer intervals that is, provided the manager could have controlled circumstances. True, those who delight in "drawing" contrasts, and whose senses revel in the odor of comparisons, may be attracted by the rare opportunity of gratifying a rather unenviable passion. Yet we think a dinner is not a dinner without substantials, and the most delicious ricasmentis and crisp of pasties are insufficient without the bouillon and roast beef. This is not intended to reflect on the ladies, for we should love to listen to their notes, and those of the nightingale, "oft in the stilly night," nor ever weary. But would not a week or two of tragedy make the banquet more piquant?

Death has made fearful inroads on professional people within the few weeks of the season. Here, Miss Fannie Edrian (Parks) was summoned away just as she was creating a most agreeable impression by her gentle deportment and lady like acting. At New Orleans Mollie a-Becket, wife of the Irish comedian. At Louisville "that" sterling actor and most estimable gentleman, J. M. Dawson, was called, and now "is heard no more."

Among those who have fallen before the Reaper with the yellow sickle, at the Crescent City, are the following of the demi monde of amusements: Frank Raymond, Dan. Holt, Tom Hart, Dan. Sweetman, Signorita Marie, Mrs. Fred Shaw and Emma Schoolcraft, all formerly of the Academy of Music, but more recently of Oxford Variety Hall.

Mrs. Lander, nee Joan Davenport has been playing Queen Elizabeth with her own troupe, to immense audiences, at Mozart Hall, Cincinnati. The discriminating critic of the Commercial thus describes the representation of the greatest of England's Queens, by one whom we consider par excellence the greatest actress on the American stage:

"The delineation is painfully real, and startles every beholder. The blood runs chill upon contemplation of the transformation from vigorous health to tottering age, and this, with the frightful spectacle which Mrs. Lander presents in her portrayal of the specter-haunted and unpitied old Queen, leaves nothing or the horrible to be realized by an audience through a mere stage representation. Her attitudes might form studies for an artist, so perfect are they in their expression of the passion which happens to sway the moment; and the entire tragedy abounds with pictures or living tableaux which, in themselves, form a splendid entertainment."

Edwin Booth is playing at the Cincinnati National. The same judicious and observant writer who spoke of Mrs. Lander, thus compliments Booth's Othello:

"It has been our good fortune to have seen Anderson, Davenport, Barry Sullivan and Forrest, each as Othello, and it is probable most theater goers in this city have. Each is an acknowledged master of the part, and possesses his peculiar claims to the admiration of the public. Each has a school—save grandeur, Davenport's classic performance, Barry Sullivan's magnificence and Forrest's terrible passion in the role will readily be recalled. Edwin Booth's portrayal embodies all, and candor compels us to acknowledge that never have we witnessed a more satisfying performance of Othello than his last night. There is probably no other character in the range of the English drama wherein an audience will sooner forgive an actor for tearing a passion to tatters, yet Mr. Booth's Othello filled the measure of passion, nor marred a single speech with overdoing. From first to last he exhibited a perfect naturalness, spoke the lines set down as though they were inspired on the moment, was temperate, in gesture, and wilbal thrilled the audience with the intensity of his delineation."

And he thus speaks of one in whose advancement many friends in Memphis feel an interest:

"Mr. Wheelock, as Iago, displayed better qualities as an actor than we thought him possessed of, and gave a very fair representation of the character of the tragedy, which, in fine, was very well represented throughout."

Miss Fanny Morgan Phelps is the reigning star of the Fourth Street Theater, Cincinnati. Her forte is said to lie in imitating dialects, and to be very clever in Irish and Scotch characters requiring the brogue and the burr of those nationalities, without interfering with the sense.

On Friday evening, the citizens of St. Louis gave a complimentary benefit to Miss Eliza Newton, at the "Varieties." The entertainment must have been immense, (worthy of Gabe Raval), for one of the St. Louis papers announced that she was to "appear in two pieces!"

Eliza Logan (Mrs. Geo. Wood), it is said, will reappear shortly on the stage. We do not presume she has grown in stature, although perhaps in built, since some years since, conceiving the measure of her fame to be full, she retired from "the player's profession." Perhaps Jean Davenport Lander's new conquests have inspired her with pardonable emulation. She was a charming actress and agreeable lady, and doubtless is so still.

The Japanese, who closed their performances here last evening, will be in Nashville on Monday.

A disturbance occurred at Frempt's circus, at Enton, Preble county, Ohio, on Monday night, during which a man named Wm. Thomas fired at the ringmaster, missing him, but the ball struck a young lady named Campbell, killing her instantly, the ball passing through her breast.

The Reverend Alexander Dyce is about to issue the ninth and last volume of his edition of Shakspeare.

Mr. Bulwer Lytton and Mr. Charles Reade are both said to have written plays for Mr. Alfred Wigan's new theater.

Among the recent deaths in England may be mentioned that of Mr. Frederick Guest Tomlins, a well known dramatic critic of the London journals. Mr. Tomlins was one of the originators of the Shakspeare Society, of which he was for years the working secretary. He was also at one time the sub-editor of Douglas Jerrold's Weekly Newspaper, and the editor of the Topic. In his capacity of dramatic critic Mr. Tomlins was influential enough to draw down upon his head the anathemas of Mr. Charles Reade, whose dramatization of his novel "Never Lade to Mend," was not entirely to the taste of Mr. Tomlins or anybody else. Mr. Reade made a savage onslaught upon his critic, but he modified his piny, we believe, in accordance with his suggestions, showing that he was not above acting up to his motto.

A Card to the Public.

Two of the morning papers of yesterday contain a series of resolutions purporting to come from the Executive Committee of the Howard Association, with the following preface to the underpinned:

Resolved, That W. C. McClure, having used indecorous and improper language toward the Sisters of Mercy and the Association, be considered no longer a member thereof.

This singular action of the Howard Association grew out of a conversation which took place on Tuesday last, between Mr. Jonathan Rice, James T. Gallagher and myself, while conversing together. Gallagher stated that the Association had telegraphed to Cincinnati, St. Louis, New Orleans and other places for nurses and Sisters of Mercy to come to the sick here. In this connection I stated that the Howard Association had acted imprudently, and that the result would be perplexities—as it would drive trade from Memphis, create an undue alarm and injure the credit of our merchants in the large cities. To these statements Gallagher took exceptions, and introduced the above conversation "before the Executive Committee of which he is a member, and the committee, without giving me the slightest notification, adopted the above resolution. In reference to the charge of having used indecorous and improper language toward the Sisters of Mercy, I have simply to brand such a statement as a falsehood, and subjoin the following letter, which speaks for itself:

MEMPHIS, TENN., Saturday Morning.

MR. W. C. MCCLURE.—Sir: I was present during the whole conversation between you and Captain Gallagher in reference to the Howard Association, etc., and did not hear you use any indecorous or improper language toward the Sisters of Mercy, as is stated in resolution from Howard Association.

Yours,
JONATHAN RICE,
Of Rice, Stix & Co.

Having removed the stigma from myself and fastened the falsehood where it properly belongs, I leave the public to judge of this action of the Executive Committee of the Howard Association.

Respectfully,
W. C. MCCLURE.

MONETARY.

DAILY AVALANCHE OFFICE,
SUNDAY, October 20, 1867.

The money market continues stringent, notwithstanding continued receipts of currency, and bankers are unable to meet the demands from all classes of business, particularly in the movements of cotton.

The cotton market is dull and presents few features of interest. Offerings of gold and silver are light, and there is no counter demand while in the present dullness of exchange there is no object in shipping the precious metals to Europe. Dealers bought gold to-day at 144 asked, and silver at 140@[illegible] for halves and quarters. Gold opened in New York at 140, advanced to 140, and is now quoted at the opening price.

Stocks and bonds are dull, owing to scarcity of currency, and we have no transactions to report.

EXCHANGE is heavy at ½ discount for New York commercial bills, but transfer stock is held a shade firmer for a gilt edge article on all points North and East. New Orleans exchange is dull and nominal.

CITY CLIP.—Is dull and nominal.; no buying, and dealers are desirous to sell at same.

COUNTY CLIP.—Is dull, and can be had of dealers at rates the most favorable to purchasers, as the holders only ask the buying rate.

BANK NOTES.—Are bought and sold as follows: For banks at 7 discount, old issue, etc; Bank of West Tennessee, 5@10; Bank of Memphis, 5@10; Bank of Commerce, 5@10; Bank of Tennessee, 5@10; Bank of Shelby, 5@10; Bank of Randolph, 5@10; Bank of Fayette, 5@10; Bank of Somerville, 5@10; Bank of Raleigh, 5@10; Bank of Brownsville, 5@10; Bank of Commerce, Memphis, 5@10; Bank of Commerce, Nashville, 5@10; Bank of Nashville, 5@10; Bank of Knoxville, 5@10; Bank of Memphis

OFFICE:
In our new building, No. 329 Jefferson street, near the corner of Main.

[The following exquisite poem has been attributed to many writers, and some have claimed it to be of transatlantic origin. Somebody in Atlanta, no great while ago attributed it to the tragedienne, eccentric but talented Dora Shaw; who, herself, would be too proud and too honest to lay an claim or pretention to, more than to admire it. The poem was the production of Henry W. Paxon, now deceased, brother of the talented Charles, of the Louisville Courier, and the eccentric Len, of the Paducah Herald. It has been many times published, but as there has been a dispute about its paternity or maternity, we place it in our little nook, that it may be preserved with this explanation. It is as full of the pathos of a blasted life as can be met with anywhere, and cannot be read without a shudder at the contrast between the purity of virtue and the deformity of vice. Alas! that angels can "stoop from their high sphere" and fall so low!—EDS. AVALANCHE.]

THE SNOW.

I.

Oh, the snow, the beautiful snow!
Filling the earth and sky below;
Over the housetops, over the street,
Over the heads of people you meet,
Dancing,
Flirting,
Skimming along;
Beautiful snow! it can do no wrong;
Flying to kiss a fair lady's cheek;
Clinging to tips in a frolicsome freak;
Beautiful snow from the heaven above,
Pure as an angel, gentle as love!

II.

Oh, the snow, the beautiful snow!
How the flakes gather and laugh as they go,
Whirling about in the maddening fun!
It plays in its glee with every one.
Chasing,
Laughing,
Hurrying by,
It lights on the face and it sparkles the eye;
And the dogs, with a bark and a bound,
Snap at the crystals that eddy around.
The town is alive and its heart in a glow,
To welcome the coming of beautiful snow!

III.

How wild the crowd goes surging along,
Hailing each other with hum or and song!
Filling the air sledges, like meteors, flash by,
Bright for the moment, then lost to the eye!
Ringing,
Swinging,
Dashing they go,
Over the crust of the beautiful snow—
Snow so pure when it falls from the sky,
To be trampled in mud by the crowd rushing by;
To be trampled and tracked by the thousands of feet,
Till it blends with the filth of the horrible street!

IV.

Once I was as pure as the snow—but I fell!
Fell, like the snow-flake from heaven to hell!
Fell, to be trampled as filth in the street;
Fell, to be scoffed, to be spit on and beat;
Pleading,
Cursing,
Kneeling to die,
Selling my soul to whoever would buy;
Dealing in shame for a piece of bread;
Hating the living and fearing the dead.
Merciful God! have I not described
And yet I was once as beautiful snow.

V.

Once I was fair as the beautiful snow
With an eye like the crystal, a heart like its glow;
Once I was loved for my innocent grace—
Flattered and sought for the charms of my face!
Father,
Mother,
Sisters all,
God and myself I've lost by my fall!
The veriest wretch that goes starving by
With stake a wide swoop lest I wander too nigh!
For all that is on or above me, I know
There is nothing that's pure as the beautiful snow.

VI.

How strange it should be that this beautiful snow
Should fall to live's ermine with nowhere to go!
How strange it should be when the night comes again,
If the snow and its ice struck my desperate brain!
Freezing,
Dying alone,
Too wicked for prayer, too weak for a moan,
To be heard in the strees of the cruel town.
Gone mad in the joy of the snow coming down
To me, and so die in my terrible woe,
With a bed and a shroud of the beautiful snow!

IN A TIGHT PLACE.

A Mexican Adventure.

It is now more than thirty years, says an old traveler, since I met with a very singular adventure in the northern part of Mexico. I had left Chihuahua for the Rio Grande, with a long train of mounted mules, having some Indian drivers and a Mexican guide. Near the close of the second day, just as we had fixed upon our camp, in a pleasant grove, near a running stream, a party of six men, armed, suddenly made their appearance, coming from I know not where, as I did not perceive them until they were upon us.

They were all gaily dressed in the fanciful costume of the country, and five of them carried rifles, which they levelled at me, as if with the intention of shooting me down at once.

"Do you surrender?" demanded the leader of the party, who was armed with a brace of pistols and a stiletto.

"How I any choice?" said I.

"Death."

"Then I surrender."

"Throw down your arms, and be blindfolded at once."

"May I ask what you intend to do with me," said I.

"You may ask, but I shall not tell you."

"Of course I am in your hands, and at your mercy; but, as I never harmed you, I shall venture to hope you will not treat me harshly," I rejoined.

He did not reply to this, but made a sign to his men, who advanced, gathered up my weapons, and fixed a bandage over my eyes. Two of them took me by the arm, and led me away between them.

To the best of my judgment we walked about half a mile, not a word being spoken. Then we began to descend steps, and, by the cooler and damper air, I believed we were entering some subterranean place, perhaps a cave. We went down for a comparatively long distance, and then through what seemed to be a narrow passage, with sharp turns—now to the right, and now to the left. Then we went up a few steps, and down twice as many, and soon after appeared to enter an apartment where several persons were assembled, chatting and laughing, who suddenly became silent.

Here I expected my bandage to be removed but it was not. I was still led forward to another passage, and then into some room, the door of which opened with a harsh grating sound.

My sight being now restored to me, I found myself in a small rocky cell, whose dimensions and contents I could perceive by the light of an iron lamp which one of my two conductors held in his hand. The apartment was perhaps ten feet by six, and looked as if it had been hewed out of a solid rock. It had an iron door, with a very small opening in it to admit air. It was daylight when I left the fresh world above, but there was no daylight here, and the air was damp and nauseous. A dirty mattress stretched along the ground on one side, and an earthen jug stood in corner. These were all the "room contained, which had all the appearance of a prisoner's cell.

"Will you tell me why I am here?" I said to the men as they stood watching the expression of my features.

"Because it is the wish of our chief," answered one.

"Have I done anything for which he wishes to punish me?"

"He had better answer that question himself."

"Shall I see him soon?"

"You may, and you may not."

"Meantime, what will become of my property?"

"It will be cared for."

"May I hope that it will be restored to me?"

"You may hope what you will."

"Will you tell me nothing to solve this mystery?"

"That is not our business here," said the spokesman, and then they both turned to go out.

"Oh, gentleman!" exclaimed I, as a horrible suspicion suddenly flashed upon my mind; "pray assure me of one thing—I am not to be locked up here, and left to starve to death?"

"It is not for us to say," was the reply, as the heavy iron door was swung to and locked, leaving me in the darkness, a prey to fear and despair.

For hours no one came near me; and not knowing what better to do, I stretched my weary self out on the mattress, and finally fell asleep.

I was awakened by the creaking of the hinges of my iron door. I looked up, and could scarcely believe my senses, when I beheld, by the light she held in her hand, a young, tall, beautiful lady, with black eyes and hair, very gayly and richly dressed; her soft, white, tapering fingers fairly glittering with rings of great value. Behind her, like an evil genius, stood a wrinkled and ugly old woman, whose bleared eyes and hooked nose just came out of the shadow, over her shoulder, with a very unpleasant if not startling effect.

I immediately rose from my couch, and made my most polite bow, which the younger of the strangers returned but at me, in a very peculiar manner, for nearly half a minute, acknowledged by a very slight inclination of her head.

"What is your name, age and country, senor?" she said, speaking in the tone of one accustomed to command.

"My name is Walter Ainsworth; I am twenty-nine years of age, and was born in the United States."

"What is the value of your main and watch?"

"Five thousand dollars."

"What amount of money and things of value have you about your person?"

"I have about me not far from a thousand dollars besides my watch, worth two hundred; these are all of special value, my pistols and bowie-knife having already been given up to you."

"Have you a wife and children?"

"I have a wife and two children."

"Where?"

"In New Orleans."

"Do they depend on you for support?"

"They do."

"Will your heirs receive your property before your death?"

"Only a little, worth perhaps a few hundred dollars."

"I think you have given me truthful answers," she said, looking me keenly in the ye.

"I have, indeed, fair lady, and I hope I may trust much to your kindness and mercy."

"Give him bread and water, Frances," she said, turning to the old woman.

The latter stepped past her mistress and placed a stone jug and loaf of bread at my feet. Both then turned to go out, and I exclaimed, pleadingly:

"Have mercy, fair lady, and procure me my liberty!"

"What will you give for it?" she inquired.

"If necessary, everything I possess."

"I will consider your proposition," she replied; and then the heavy iron door was again swung to and locked, and I was again left in darkness and solitude.

From that time, for a long period—a month, as I made it out—I saw no living soul. There was a small door set in the larger, and once a day this was opened; but being dark outside, and no light being brought, I could see no one. A hand reached in a loaf of bread and a jug of water, and I handed out the jug already there. Several times I addressed words to the invisible party outside, but, no answer ever being returned, I at length ceased to speak, and for the last three weeks said nothing. What I suffered in that time I leave to the imagination.

One day the same lady I have described came and spoke to me through the wicket.

"Are you still of the same mind, senor—willing to give all you possess for your liberty?"

"Oh, yes, lady! yes! I will give all!—all! Oh, for the love of heaven, set me at liberty!"

"Will you swear to follow my directions in every particular, and never seek to find this place, and never seek to bring to justice any one concerned in your capture and imprisonment?"

"Yes, lady! by the most sacred oath you may prescribe."

"Then, by the lives of your wife and children swear!"

"I do! and by my hopes of Heaven!"

"You will be blindfolded and led out of your prison," she pursued, "but will not be left to go penniless. What you have about your person you will be allowed to keep, and your will be put upon the road to Chihuahua, mounted on a good horse, and furnished with a heavy purse, a part of the proceeds of your mule train, which has been sold to advantage. You will ride to Chihuahua as fast as you can, and report yourself as having done well, without making mention of any trouble on the route, or of any person or thing you have heard or seen in this vicinity. After that, take my advice and leave the country, without ever returning this way again."

"In every particular, kind lady, you shall be obeyed," said I, my heart wildly beating with hope and joy.

"It is well. Be ready in an hour. Adios."

She went away, and that hour seemed to me an age, as I hurriedly paced up and down my dark cell. Would she keep her promise? should I again be free?

Thank heaven, she was true to her word. At the expiration of an hour two persons entered my cell in the dark, put a close bandage over my eyes, and led me away in silence, through long and narrow passages as before, and up to the world above. Oh! what a delightful sensation to feel and breathe once more the pure air of heaven. They still continued to lead me away for something like a mile, and then put a heavy purse in my hand and mounted me upon a horse.

"Now then," said "one, we are about to leave you. Your horse's head is toward Chihuahua. Do not touch your bandage till you hear us whistle, then tear it off and ride for your life, looking not behind you."

I followed their directions, as I had sworn to do, and reached my destination in safety, and soon after left the country. The bag given me contained the amount of a thousand dollars in gold. To this day I do not understand the mystery of my punishment, robbery and parting present.

The Pan-Anglican Synod.

The following is the pastoral address which has been adopted by the Synod, and signed individually by the Bishops:

To the faithful in Christ Jesus, the Priests and Deacons, and the Lay Members of the Church of Christ in communion with the Anglican Branch of the Church Catholic:

We, the undersigned Bishops, gathered under the good providence of God for prayer and conference at Lambeth, pray for you that ye may obtain grace, mercy and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ our Saviour.

We give thanks to God, brethren beloved, for the faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love toward the saints, which hath abounded among you; and for the knowledge of Christ which through you hath been spread abroad among the most vigorous races of the earth; and with one mouth we make our supplications to God, even the Father, that by the power of the Holy Ghost He would strengthen us with His might, to amend among us the things which are amiss, to supply the things which are lacking, and to reach forth unto higher measures of love and zeal in worshiping Him and in making known His name; and we pray that to His good time He would give back into His whole Church the blessed Gift of Unity in Truth.

And now we exhort you in love that ye keep whole and undefiled the faith once delivered to the saints as ye have received it of the Lord Jesus. We entreat you to watch and pray, and to strive heartily with us against the wiles and subtleties wherewith the faith hath been aforetime and is now assailed.

We beseech you to hold fast, as the sure Word of God, all the canonical Scriptures of the Old and New Testament; and that by diligent study of these oracles of God, praying in the Holy Ghost, ye seek to know more of the Lord Jesus Christ our Savior, whom they reveal unto us, and of the will of God which they declare.

Furthermore, we entreat you to guard yourselves and yours against the growing superstitions and additions with which in these latter days the truth of God hath been overlaid; and otherwise, so especially by the pretension to universal sovereignty over God's heritage asserted for the See of Rome, and by the practical exaltation of the Blessed Virgin Mary as mediator in the place of her Divine Son, and by the addressing of prayers to her as intercessor between God and man. Of such beware, we beseech you, knowing that the jealous God giveth not His honor to another.

Build yourselves up, therefore, beloved, in your most holy faith; grow in grace and in the knowledge and love of Jesus Christ, our Lord. Show forth before all men, by your faith, self-denial, purity, and godly conversation, as well as by your labors for the people among whom God hath so widely opened you, and by the setting forth of His Gospel to the unbelievers and the heathen, that ye are indeed the servants of Him who died for us to reconcile His Father to us, and to be a sacrifice for the sins of the whole world.

Brethren beloved, with one voice we warn you; the time is short; the Lord cometh; watch, and be sober. Abide steadfast in the communion of saints, wherein God hath granted you a place. Seek in faith for oneness with Christ in the blessedness Sacrament of His body and blood. Hold fast the creeds and the pure worship and order, which of God's grace ye have inherited from the primitive church. Beware of causing divisions contrary to the doctrine ye have received. Pray and seek for unity among yourselves, and among all the faithful in Christ Jesus, and the good Lord make you perfect and keep your bodies, souls and spirits until the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ.

The Pall Mall of the 30th has the following: The Dean of Westminster and Lady Augusta Stanley returned to the Deanery, Westminster, from Scotland last week, for the purpose, we are informed, of showing hospitality to the Bishops (especially to the American Bishops,) now visiting England. All the arrangements however, were cut short by the arrival of the melancholy tidings of the sudden and unexpected death of Sir Frederick Bruce, (late Augusta Stanley's brother) H. B. M.'s Minister to the United States. It is well known that the Dean of Westminister declined to give permission for a week-day special service in the Abbey during the meeting of the Pan-Anglican Synod. The Conference sat with closed doors, and it is said the Dean and Chanter did not wish, even in this indirect way, to appear as indorsing all that might take place. The Dean, however, is said to have sent a very kind letter, inviting all our American Episcopalian visitors to the Abbey yesterday.

Cairo.

The Cairo Democrat has this flattering picture of the Delta City, which shows that the advantages of location and the determination to build a city on the site of "Eden," although the progress may be more tardy than agreeable to the anxiety and solicitude attributable to the "fast age" in which we live, is succeeding despite the prediction of the timid, or doubting Thomases. It says:

When the war commenced Cairo contained less than five thousand inhabitants, and the dull times—almost times of want that characterized that season—are not forgotten by any one who "realized" them. Cairo to-day contains over ten thousand inhabitants, and these ten thousand are facing prosperous today, enjoying a more fruitful business than did the five thousand of 1860! This fact is worthy of thought. It demonstrates that our progress is sure, that we are as a city making a head way that our sources of trade amply justify, even if it only remains for us to open the avenues of trade already contemplated, to call here and support a population of 50,000 people!

What Dickens comes over he will hardly recognize what "Eden" where Mark Tapley was so "jolly."

Arrangements are now being made to hold, in Philadelphia, commencing on the first Wednesday of November, a national convention composed of delegates of different branches of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

LYON'S
PERIODICAL DROPS!
THE GREAT
Female Remedy for Irregularities

I HAVE tested these Drops in my own practice over ten years, and do not hesitate to say, that nothing has ever been developed by medical research that acts so powerfully, positively and harmlessly, in cases of female irregularity, as does this medicine. In all recent cases it never fails, while thousands who have been long sufferers, are indebted to it for the boon of health to-day.

Although so powerful and positive, they are perfectly harmless, and may be used at all times, even by those specially forbidden in the directions.

They have been extensively employed by eminent physicians in France and England, as well as in my own practice, over ten years, and I have yet to hear of the first instance of failure. I could give you testimonials of their efficacy from ladies all over the United States and Canada, but time and space will not permit me to do so. Over one hundred thousand bottles have been sold the present year, and the demand is increasing as they become better known. I am well aware that a remedy so potent to remove a monster, may be used for a bad purpose, but trust that where one bottle in this way, one will be in the hands of really needy sufferers.

To all who suffer from any irregularity; painful, difficult, excessive, offensive or obstructed Menstruation, Leucorrhea, or Whites, or any disease that arises from a disordered state of the system, DR. LYON'S FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS, Being a powerful preparation, these Drops require no purging, no nasty pills or powders. Explicit directions, bearing my fac simile, accompany each bottle.

They may be obtained of nearly every druggist in the country, or will be forwarded by the proprietor, DR. K. A. LYON, New Haven, Connecticut, General Agents for the United States and Canada.
DR. JOHN L. LYON,
Practicing Physician.

Price $1 00 per Bottle.
